WITH so many opinions about bran, it is well to know the facts. Here are the results of laboratory tests

Bran is a good source of Vitamin B. This vitamin helps tone up the intestines and keep them regular. Bran also supplies "bulk" which further aids intestinal action. The "bulk" in bran is much like the "bulk" you eat in lettuce or other leafy vegetables. This "bulk" absorbs moisture—like a soft sponge - and gently cleanses the intestines of wastes. Bran also brings the body needed iron for the blood.

A pleasant, safe bran cereal is Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Millions of people have used it with satisfactory results over a period of ten years.

Two tablespoonfuls daily of this delicious ready-toeat cereal are usually sufficient to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. If you suffer from intestinal trouble not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

Accomplishment and misfortune featured a squirrel hunt near Buckhead Thursday when three youths bagged six of the furry animals, and in order to procure the seventh, cut a tree upon one of their number.

Nicholas Givins, his brother, Fred Gillstrap, 18 and 17 years old, respectively, of Route 2, Chamblee, and Ed Samples, 17, of Roswell road, set forth in search of game, armed only with rubber flippers, or sling-shots, Success was theirs and the six squirrels were soon their property.

A seventh was killed, but it lodged in a tree and in order to possess the animal the lads cut the tree, down. The tree fell and was held upon another tree, and it, too, was cut down, and falling upon Givins, left him unconscious.

The boy was treated for severe lascerations at Grady hospital and sent thome. First fears of freetweet and nent Scout worker in the sixth district.

ever doubt there remained on the score of democratic organization of the next house seems to have been dissipated by the announcement of Tuesday night of Governor John C. cember 31, 24 days after congress convenes.

Election laws of the state make it impossible to certify a successor to Mr. Hale before that date, Governor Winant explained.

Even though republicans recapture the several seats they have lost since the November (1930) elections because of death, the Hale vacancy, plus the recent turnover in a Chicago district, where a recount gave the seat to a democrat, will serve to deprive the G. O. P. of the lone majority it had on the fact of the 1930 returns.

Not Settled.

It is not known yet just what will happen with respect to the Chicago district recount. Indications are that both the republican and the democrat will appear before the house with certificates of election. Even if both

Trial of City Graft Cases To Be Resumed Next Month

Chosewood Will Face Big Charity Ball Jury Nov. 17; Decisions Tonight To Provide Tells Nation It Alone Can Expected Soon.

Trial of ex-Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, who is charged with being interested in city contracts, set for November 17 in Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy's division of Fulton superior court, is expected to mark a vigorous renewal of efforts to dispose of the rest of the city hall graft cases. Interest in the graft cases probably will be heightened within the next few weeks in view of the possibility of the appellate courts handing down new decisions in the cases of ex-City Clerk Walter C. Taylor during the early part of next month.

Taylor has three cases pending in the appellate courts, one in the court of appeals, and two in the supreme court. One of the supreme court cases involves an appeal by the state from the state court of appeals on a writ of certiorari.

A decision is expected soon on a Taylor conviction, appealed to the high court and argued on March 16, which involves a sentence of 24 months and $1,000 fine imposed on Taylor for the alleged acceptance of two amounts of $400 each from Mike Ellman in connection with an auction jeweler's license matter.

The charity ball and Mardi Gras, sponsored by Atlanta lodge, No. 78, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, at the city auditorium tonight promises to be a most entertaining affair. A round of events, including a fancy drill by the Purple Devils of Atlanta lodge, one of the best drilled bodies in the order, and a host of professional artists will make the evening pleasant for those who attend, according to Fred J. Robinson, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Proceeds of the ball will be used to augment a fund to operate the emergency kitchen in the Elks' home, Fourth and Peachtree streets, where 500 needy persons will be fed each day. Meals are being furnished to approximately 200 persons a day at the present time, according to Barney Bernard, chairman of the committee on social and community welfare work.

Merchant Offers Financial Plan To Aid "Back-to-Farm" Movement.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 29.-(P)-A proposal looking to the rehabilitation of farm folk who have come to the city and are now in need of help was advanced Thursday by Fred H. Schomburg, Columbus merchant, civic leader and welfare worker.

Mr. Schomburg's plan would put them back on the farm where they could be made self-sustaining.

Many who came to the city for cotton mill and other employment now are finding work scarce and now wish they were back in the country, he said.

Under his proposal, the welfare bureau would investigate applicants for assistance. If it were found that the applicants have had farming experience, the county agricultural agent, Felix Jenkins, would be called into consultation.

On recommendation of the county agent, a bank with a fund provided by the Community Chest would advance money enough to buy such farm equipment and stock as is necessary to get a start, such as a mule, allow cow, chickens seed etc. The plow, cow, chickens, seed, etc. The welfare bureau would furnish neces-sary food until a garden or crop could

"In this manner," Mr. Schomburg said, "the community would give tem-porary help and make self-sustaining itizens of families that otherwise may have to be helped permanently.

und abandonment of such relief."

He said banks could not be expected to handle such loans under regular banking rules and from regular funds, but that he had in mind "a special fund provided for them from the Community Chest charity funds set asid in trust to the bank, to start with $1,000, $2,000 or $3,000." He said a list of vacant farms could be obtained by Mr. Jenkins from owners who, Mr. Schomburg said, would be "glad to donate the first year's rent free, knowing they may secure a desirable to the payment of stock when the new issuance, increasing the capital had been made.

The bank was placed in the hands of the state banking department in August of last year when T. W. Hawkes, president, admitted an embezzlement of $91,000.

RN. Stribling said he asked that his claim be designated as preferred, but long been identified prominently with welfare activity. He said the need for helping farm folks to get back on the farm had been presented to him time and time again by persons who came to him seeking help.

Mangled by Corn Husker

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 29.—
(P)—John Oglesby, 44, a farmer of Williamaville, today amputated his own right hand after it became inextricably caught in the cogs of a corn husker.

Half an hour he tugged at the hand before giving up hope of saving it. Then with his left hand he reached into his pocket and brought out a pocket knife. He handed it to Frank Sharp, a neighbor whom he had been helping.

Sharp balked at cutting the hand off. Oglesby took the knife and severed the hand at the wrist. An hour later he walked into the Springfield hospital, puffing a pipe. "I cut my hand off," he said.

BY ALVIN HALLMAN.
LONDON, Oct. 29.—(P)—Prime Minister Rumsay MacDonald today began the task of selecting the cab inet ministers on whom he will rely in his fight to re-establish complete
in his fight to re-establish complete international confidence in Great Britain's stability and to put the nation's economic house in order.

The first responsibility of the prime minister, equipped with his "doctor's mandate" by the overwhelming national government victory in Tuesday's general election, is to find a successor to Philip Suowden in the important post of chancellor of the exchequer.

Mr. Henderson probably will offer himself at the first normal by-election, meanwhile directing the labor party activities from his home.
Only one additional election result was made known today. T. B. Ramsay, running as a national liberal, retained his seat from Western Isles, Scotland, in a straight party fight with Captain Ian Moffat-Pender, conservative. Mrs. Laura Mitchell, 1277 Oakdale food, arrested earlier in the week at request of New York government officials on charges that she impersonated an immigration inspector, was prevaring Thursday to fight removal to New York, it was announced, with the engagement of Frank Doughman as counsel. A warrant mailed from New York arrived Thursday afternoon, and a hearing concerning her removal is slated for November 7, before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith.

Mrs. Mitchell was arrested on a commissioner's warrant charging solely that she impersonated an officer and went aboard the ship Edison of the Greek line in this guise and threatened the captain with arrest for smuggling in stowaways. However, additional information from New York, from George Medalic, federal district attorney of the southern district of New York, had it Thursday that she is alleged to be connected with widespread extortion activities among Greeks. Her husband. Pete N.

Medalie said that he was investigating the possibility that Mrs.
Mitchell is connected with a gigantic sanuggling ring that recently landed 450 aliens near New York upon payment of $1,000 each. He added that he believed that she could clear up a series of blackmail and attempted extortion of prominent Greeks in New give up the hard work of the treasury post.

It is believed, however, that Mr. Snowden's economic knowledge and sage political counsel will not be lost to the new government, as a sinecure post in the ministry probably will be found for him.

Neville Chamberlain, conservative minister of health in the national cabinet, is widely mentioned as the most probable successor to Mr. Snowden.

The cabinet is expected to be increased from 10 to the normal 20 or so. Its membership was cut in two when Mr. MacDonald's labor cabinet went out of office to give way to the national ministry.

Sir John Simon is almost certain to get a post of some sort as is his fellow liberal, Walter Runciman, war-time president of the board of trade. Mr. Runciman is mentioned as a possible alternative to Neville Chamberlain, as chancellor of the exchequer. It is believed almost certain Winston Churchill also will be in the cabinet.

Mr. MacDonald conferred for 50 in the trade, with Vinga George Script of the cabinet. "I have never accepted a nickel for helping any citizen of Greece out of difficulties," she declared, "I have never blackmailed anyone. I am interested and always have been in putting a stop to the smuggling of Greek aliens into this country." She declared that the whole matter has grown out of an attempt to frame her be-

Martin, of Columbus, out of $90,000 in a phony race track tip system, was the principal development in federal district court here Thursday when the feature of the day's hearing was the testimony of Martin himself.

Martin, who was on the stand for two hours and ten minutes, described at length how, lured by the promise of easy and sure money, he was led to place the large sums on tips given him by telephone and how he sub-of easy and sure money, he was led to place the large sums on tips given him by telephone and how he subsequently lost $50,000, of which amount $30,000 has since been recovered, he stated.

Martin, a theater magnate, testified that John J. Durfield, a film salesman of former acquaintance, approached him and introduced a man to him as "Charlie Stone," who represented himsef as a relay man for the Western Union Telegraph Company and hinted that much money could be made by allowing him to delay messages on stocks and to give him tips by telephone before they became generally known. Martin then continued that he was induced to go to Canton, Ohio, where he won $1,000 on race track tips. It was only after he reached Canton that the race track idea was broached, he said.

He then returned south and went back with $60,000, which he lost on a horse named "Hottentot," and on a third trip placed $30,000 on a horse and won, he said. However, before he could collect, he stated, pseudo officers came into the turf exchange, with Smith "under arrest" for tapping the wires. In the courtroom he identified Smith as the "Charlie Stone," but would not positively identify Ellis as "Hall," though he declared that he looked very much like him. He declared that "Hall" stayed with him in Canton and helped him place his bets on the horses.

Martin told the jury that he had obtained a letter of credit to obtain the $60,000 in $1,000 bills, but that he did not know of his own knowledge that the letter was sent through the mails or not.

He stated that he gave Martin a copy to carry with him for identification, and also a deposit slip for the amount to be dated the next day.

L. L. Gillerstedt and W. H. Gilbert, of the Citizens & Southern bank, testified to having seen the letter of credit which presumably arrived in the mail, and of the subsequent action in giving the 60 $1,000 bills to Martin. Attorneys for the defense brought out on cross-questioning that neither definitely knew that the letter came by mail, but that the assumption was that it had.

The last witness called for the day was Durfield, who is said by government officials to have made a written confession to his part in the matter. He is indicted with Ellis and Smith, but is not on trial. He testified, corroborating Martin's testimony in all particulars, adding the weight of identification that Smith was the man known as "Stone" and that Ellis was "Hall."

While General John J. Pershing and Secretary of War "Newton D. Baker were advocating that American troops be kept in separate units, the book says, Herbert Hoover suggested to Colonel E. M. House in February, 1917, two months before congress declared war, a plan where by American manpower would have been used only to fill gaps in the allied armies.

Palmer says.

The book is based principally on the confidential papers and files of Secretary Baker, supplemented by two sets of the confidential telegrams which passed between the war department and the A. E. F. headquarters in France

Harbord collaborated on a draft which was "obligingly" signed by Gen-eral Tasker H. Bliss, chief of staff. The other set, signed by President Wilson, was handed to Pershing by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker. The main difference between the two orders, Palmer says, was "that the Pershing version made no refer-ence to the importance of keeping our

The ordinary "understanding" between businessmen, friends or rela-ves is a misunderstanding:

Where there are conflicting interests there are conflicting concepions of right, and where there are conflicting conceptions of right there are differing views of fact.

When the day of settlement comes, one man says to the other: "I didn't understand it that way." And the other answers hotly: "Trying to crawfish, are you? Well, you're not going to let me down. I'll sue you." The first man thinks he was tricked into signing something he didn't understand, and the second thinks he is dealing with a rogue whose word is worthless. Yet it is probable that both are honest. When the agreement was made, each saw the thing he wished to see and expected the thing he most desired. Each was satisfied by his own imagination, but they imagined different things.

The quarrels of nations, litigants and friends begin, as a rule, in misunderstanding; and the failure to understand one another begins, almost without exception, in the fact that each assumes that his version of right is conceded by the other.

Verbal agreements frequently are worthless because they aren't agreements in fact. How can men agree on a contract when they don't even agree in their definition of words?

There would be fewer charges of rascality if people would learn to distrust not only their memories but also their ability as mind readers, It isn't fair to assume that the other fellow is a rogue because once were so foolish as to assume that he meant something he didn't Irene Rich has had one of the most interesting and colorful careers of anyone in the colony. She has been some 14 years making pictures, and some 14 years making pictures, and has steadily moved along with the tide of popularity, being now at the height of her success. Coming to Hollywood with two small children to support and with no previous camera or stage experience, she began as an extra and gradually worked her way up to stardom.

Robert Williams, playing opposite Constance Bennett in "Lady With a Past," was taken ill with an attack of appendicitis and rushed to the Hollywood hospital, where he is ungeressary someone else will have to

The employment relations committee recommended that unemployment relief should be on the basis of payment for work actually performed. It urged that polities be kept out of administration of public relief funds, and that local bodies control the work under the supervision of a central state authority.

but William Green today found at least two hopeful signs along the road toward winter.

As James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, was telling a senate committee that employment in his industry is on the upgrade, the president of the American Federation of Labor summarized a story of unemployment trends in this way:

The number of men out of work increased two-tenths of one percent to 19.6 the first half of October.

Such an increase "at this time of year is not unusual," since "a similar increase occurred in October even in the normal year of 1928."

If unemployment continues to intrease at this rate "we shall have 7,000,000 persons out of work by January next."

More Short Schedules.

Other figures show more men working on short schedules, a favorable sign when unemployment is rising.

Court Hears 'Love Story'

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 29.—(UP)—
The story of Nan Britton's "love for Warren G. Harding, how it began in childhood and grew in intensity as she approached adolescence," was described in detail as her libel suit against C. A. Klunk for $50,000 progressed today in federal court here.

Excerpts from her book, "The President's Daughter," in which Miss Britton charges that the late president to the book, "The Answer to the dents Dangater, in which Miss Brit-ton charges that the late president was the father of her 12-year-old daughter, Elizabeth Ann, were read to the jury during the afternoon. AUTHOR OF HARDING EXPOSE REPUDIATES IT AS A HOAX REPUDIATES IT AS A HOAX
NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 29.—(UP)— Mrs. Max Dixon Thacker, author of "The Strange Death of President Harding," repudiated it unasked in an article in Liberty magazine published today because she was convinced she had been duped, she told the United Press in an interview here.
She said she "ghosted" the book, published under the signature of Gaston B. Means from information he personally provided, and not until recently had she discovered Means had admitted to a senate committee that the poison rumer in connection with the president's death had been "all a frame-up."

She learned, she said, that Means signed an affidavit in 1925 attesting to the falsity of the story that Presi-dent Harding had been poisoned. The information had come to her less than three months ago.

"The fact that President Harding was poisoned—that simply origin ted in Gaston Means' imagination," Mrs. Thacker said. "I explained in the article that I feared I had been duped. One thing after another convinced me. There was nothing else for me to do but repudiate it.

There was nothing else for me to do but repudiate it.

"It is not easy to refute something one has done in the spirit of righteous exaltation. It was not pleasing to me to tell the story as I did. I had never seen nor heard of the affidavit until three months ago," she said.

She said she was not approached to write the repudiation and that it was written as soon as she discovered the asserted "hoax."

Accident Reveals Aviatrix Betrothal To Former Athlete

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 .- (P)-The crash of Miss Alicia Patterson's airplane near South Bend, Ind., yesterday while it was being piloted by Joseph W. Brooks, of New York, led today to the revelation that Miss Patterson and Brooks are engaged, and are to be married this winter.

Miss Patterson is touring Europe in company with Mrs. Alton A. Brooks has been using her plane while she is away. He was bound for New York from Chicago yesterday when he was forced down by motor failure near Notre Dame University. A gust of wind tossed the plane against a tree as he landed, and the craft caught fire. Brooks was hurt slightly.

The circumstance of Brooks piloting Miss Patterson's plane led to inquiries which were followed early today by announcement in the New York Daily News—published by Joseph Medill Patterson, the young woman's father—of the engagement.

Miss Patterson and James Simpson Jr., son of the president of Marshall Field & Co., of Chicago, were divorced last year.

There are some women so vapid and vain that they cannot be happy without the things that beautify and magnify their physical charms. There are some women that are so eager for admiration that they will have it at the cost of decency and respectability. There are some women who are weak and who cannot resist temptation in the guise of a man. It is a pity, but if a man loves a woman like one of these he must face the contingencies, but every safeguard around her. Leaving her to work in a hotel while he travels is not putting a safeguard around her. For her fall, he is, in some sense, partly responsible. He cannot be expected to be on hand to watch her every waking hour. He must trust to her integrity and her sense of honor. All this is perfectly true: but he owes her a duty, that of protection and fover-sight, and particularly if she be weak.

Your wife has had a year to think over her folly and her failure. It is new and crushing defeat to you but it is an old and offensive memory to her. She has asked another chance, she has asked forgiveness. Then in mercy give it to her. If she is unworthy of it, time will tell. If she is

Quality Against Quantity

There is a never ending battle in every Bridge game in which the strength of mass formation is tested against rank represented by honors. When hands are of unbalanced pattern, containing long and very strong suits, the value of honors is often minmized and sometimes reaches the vauishing point. In such cases, yard-sticks valuable in measuring the worth of a hand under ordinary conditions are ineffective. Hand patterns of this type lend themselves to unusual and spectacular bidding, as the following hand, played in a rubber game at the Nelson Bridge Club in New York recently, demonstrates Lovett Pupils Stage Exhibit.

Pupils and friends of the Lovett school have found, during the past several days, much to interest them in a 'children's exhibit of vacation activities' This relation to the control of the Lovett school o reinfaren's exhibit of vacation activities." This exhibit was promised in the spring before school closed when a list of suggested interests and occupations was given to each pupil. Since the opening of school a committee with Lupton Rainwater as chairman, has carried through the plans for the exhibit.

nas carried through the plans for the exhibit.

Contributions and collections were varied including sea shells, Indian relics, minerals, sea gulls' eggs in formaldehyde, salamanders and crawfish in alcohol, birds' nests carefully collected after the nesting season, a chipmunk stuffed and mounted, books of pressed wild flowers and leaves, sewing, soap carving, painting, clay modeling, basketry, weaving, metal work and a number of butterflies artistically mounted and accurately labeled.

Ribbons were awarded as follows to the exhibits showing the highest degree of effort and interest: First, Jessie Nunnally; second, Perry Ballard; third, Ross MacDonald; fourth, Glenville Giddings; fifth, Cary Baker, and sixth, Jane Hilsman.

It was a field day for the private in the hanks, as against honor cards, both in the play and in the bidding. North opened a heart, South trumped and returned a club. The result was that West was defcated 5 tricks, a total of 1000 points, less 100 for the honors, a most unusual and apparently unsatisfactory result. However, when the hands were examined and reassembled in the post-mortem, it was seen that South would have made his Grand Slam in diamonds, thus scoring 1500 points for the Grand Slam, 100 points for honors, 100 for making the 1500 points for the Grand Slam, 100 points for honors, 100 for making the doubled contract, 280 for the doubled value of the tricks and 700 points for the rubber, a total of 2.680 points.

It is in accord with the eternal fitness of things that East and West were rewarded by the Gods of Chance through overcoming the handicap which fate had placed upon them and eventually won a seven-point rubber. which rate had placed upon them and eventually won a seven-point rubber, both honors and mass formation turning around to serve them after having held the cup of promise to their lips only to dash it down before it could be quaffed.

How Do Chorus Girls Manage?

The theatre knows no "sick list." Chorus girls just can't be "absent." Regardless of their monthly sickness, they must be in line on time on line, on time, on their toes, and smiling. How do they do it? Nature doesn't spare them. They menstruate, of course; but stop the pain for hours at a stretch, by the use of a perfectly harmless medicine called Midol.

It acts in seven minutes. Relief is complete. The pain is gone. You menstruate in comfort. Midol is not a narcotic and offers no interference with nature. All druggists; ask simply for Midol.

"Why, we all care about Bill. He's a grand chap." Wallace's tone was reproving.

Irma wanted to laugh. She did not yield to the desire for she felt that once she started she'd never stop. She said, "Wallace, we've just become engaged. It's my first time. It's a romantic moment, or at least it should be. Don't take me literally or nag me or gently correct me until we've been married at least a while."

"Why, dear, I didn't mean—"

"I know you didn't, Wallace. Just be sweet to me and forgive me for being so nervous." She was more surprised than he to see her tears splashing on the grayish table cloth amid bread crumbs left by the former occupants.

"When are you planning on getting married?"

Maybe Monday. I'm going to tell Mildred tomorrow."

Aunt Tessie squinted into the dimness where he stood. "That you. Wallace? Got home safe, did you?"

"O, sure." He came into the living room, scaling his hat toward the window seat as he walked.

"Did you see the young lady off?"

"No. She didn't go."

"Didn't go? Why didn't she go?"
Aunt Tessie folded her knitting and crammed it into a brightly colored straw bag.

that he intended to marry again was her chance to prove that she was not unfeeling. For the sake of the heart-shaped locket and the bit of ecru lace she yearned bitterly to resent the intruder, but instead she could only feel pleased at the novelty of the situation.

"I hope you and Irma will be friends," he said weakly.

"I think we'll be married tomorrow."

"O, yes? Tomorrow's Jane Malcolm's birthday, daddy. Will you give me a few dollars to buy her something?"

He gave her $5 and retreated to his room, crushed and disappointed.

That sort of thing has been hap-pening all year, and tends to put a better-than-average Oglethorpe eleven in a rather bad light.

The season's results indicate that Oglethorpe has a better all-round team than Clemson and should win. The Petrels expect to do that very thing. THOSE TECH FRESHMEN.

There is a certain amount of curiosity, one learns by keeping an attentive ear, as to just what DID become of all those game this season, staged a remarkable good freshman players at Tech last fall who could beat all the teams they played.

The answer is easy. They are playing with the Jackets this fall. The natural question then bobs up as to why the freshmen has been the only score made by the of 1930 aren't scoring in 1931 as they did in 1930. That answer, too, is easy. Had the three or four good players of the 1930 football team been graduated to a squad containing some good, experienced junior and senior players-had they been mixed in, so to speak, with the nucleus of a good team—they would have been stars in 1931. The 1930 freshmen at Tech had to step out and take up the burden this fall. It is, in a sense, a freshman team playing varsities. Suppose, for example, that Chick Galloway or serimmage was in order, and a similar drill will be held today. The players are in splendid condition for the game. Peeler or Black had Nollie Felts and Don Zimmerman or players such as those to run with. There is no doubt but that Peeler or Black had Nollie Felts and Don Zimmerman or players such as those to run with. There is no doubt but that they, too, would be stars. Suppose that the linemen had been placed alongside of some star tackles or guards—they, too, would have gone well.

SHOCK TROOPS.

Harry Mehre, as usual, was a bit mysterious about his starting lineup. But the prevailing system of opening with the second team and throwing the regulars in probably will be followed.

would have gone well. This 1931 Tech team is learning a lot-the hard way. If the 1931 freshman team produces a good, stout tackle or so and a good back or two-the Jackets of 1932 will bound forward quite a distance.

The Tech coaching is swell. There is no mystery as to why the material isn't producing.

SPEAKING OF SPIRIT.

This column seems right on the verge of giving three cheers any moment now. It must be the collegiate atmosphere of the week-end. There seems to be such a lot of admirable things to comment on.

Backs—Captain Downes, Sullivan, Young, Moran, Mott, Chandler, Dickens, Key, Brown, Gaston, Roberts, Whire, Gilnore, Stoinoff, Linemen—McWhorter, Batchelor, Perkinson, Leathers, Maddox, Bennett, Patterson, Hazlehurst, Parks, Gooper, Townsend, McCrimmon, Hill, Smith, Kelley, Maxwell, Crenshaw, Miller, Wolfson.

The Tech football rally tonight at 7 o'clock, for instance. They have had one before every game, those Tech students. They gave the team that started to New Orleans for almost certain defeat the greatest send-off a Tech team ever had. It was greater than the one the team got in 1928 when it started west to win the national championship.

There will be a rally tonight. And on Saturday the Jacket cheering section will be as raucous and as loud as ever-the band will march and play and the team will fight through a game that is billed as a lost cause.

So do not let them tell you that the Gold and White is down and out-that the football team is through.

The days be dark ones, but with such concrete evidences of that intangible thing known as college spirit no one dares count the Jackets out. If it isn't worth three cheers, then what is?

AND THREE FOR THE PREPS.

Atlanta's prep schools are establishing great records this season. All of them are in action this week-end. There might be more excitement about the G. M. A. Cadets going up to play the Navy Plebes. And Tech High seems headed for the first Southern championship since they had Stumpy Thomason in 1924. Madison and Monroe A. & M. play a great game today at Madison. It is well worth driving over for. Madison is undefeated and Red Barron's team has lost but one. Boys' High is in Macon for a game with Lanier. The Atlanta preps supply good games each fall and good college material each spring. And they play real football.

Spurgeon Chandler, the ace kicker and passer, was sitting glumly in the Pullman, ruled out of Saturday's game because of a bruised collarbone which has incapacitated his throwing arm.

Coach Harry Mehre, harassed by injuries, would not say, but it was almost certain that not only would Chandler be held out, but that Austie Downes and Catfish Smith, two other famous cogs in the Bulldog machine, would not be started, because of injuries.

There was an air of grimness about the Pullman in which the Bulldogs rode toward Gainesville. They were going to Florida but not to enjoy the sunshine. The beckening palm trees on the billboards with the words, "Come on down and play," meant nothing to them. They were meant for tourists but not for the Georgia Bull-

ARRIVES TODAY; JACKETS READY Tech Determined To Put

VANDY ELEVEN

Up Terrific Fight Saturday.

By Ralph McGill.

By Ralph McGill.

Vanderbilt's Commodores, with their crippled captain having a fighting chance to break into the lineup Saturday when they put the war paint on and battle the Jackets at the Flats. Will make port here shortly after o'clock tonight.

Georgia Tech's Jackets, fortified with the knowledge that they always shock the Commodores, took their last hard workout Thursday afternoon and are ready for what may come.

It should be a high-test game. Amos (Mouse) Leonard, the captain, who was hurt the first game of the season, defied doctors and coaches Thursday and demanded he be given a trial to see if he could not open against the Jackets. The pull of the old game is hard. His broken arm is still unhealed, but they braced it with leather and he scrimmaged while coaches held their breath.

Your Uncle Dan McGugin, whose hand has been at the helm for 28 years at Vanderbilt, has a crippied squad. Jess Thomas is out. Leonard will be used but little if at all, Two others will be in there despite injuries.

Jess Thomas is out. Leonard will be used but little if at all. Two others will be in there despite injuries.

JACKETS, TOO.

All this woe is not confined to the Commodores. The Jackets have enough injured men to start a first-class infirmary off on a paying basis.

Vanderbilt, reports also say, is not inflamed about this contest but is looking ahead to the Tennessee game two weeks hence. This suits the Jackets right down to a T-bone steak. If the Vanderbilt Commodores are not inflamed about the coming contest with the Georgia Tech Jackets they are quite likely to be when they leave the city Saturday night.

The Jackets aim to see, as the boys say, that the Commodores are inflamed in several spots if not all over. The Jackets are going about their preparation for the Saturday game with gusto and determination.

THEY MAY CLICK.

One of these days, they figure, they may click and when they do there will be trouble. They would just as soon click against the Commodores as not. In fact they'd rather.

Only the ends and one guard position are in doubt as Coach William A. Alexander, the well-known stoic, works with his crippled and inadequate squad.

NO WEEPING. They are not at all worried about the Commodore attack. They believe that it is a great attack up to the 15-yard line but then fades out.

The Jackets have a double sort of ambition. They would naturally like to win. If they can't do that they are determined to score a touchdown, something Georgia could do but once. In fact they believe that if they can score that touchdown first they will win the ball game.

KICK-OFF BAN HELD UNLIKELY

Eight of the nine members of the committee were reached today by the Associated Press for comment on whether they favored abolishment or alteration of the present rule which puts the ball in play by a kick-off at the beginning of the first and third quarters, and following each goal or touchdown.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, led by Jack Boykin, Georgia intercollegiate tennis champion, overwhelmed Sigma Pi, 4-0, Thursday afternoon on Dewey courts at Emory, in the finals of the Emory interfraternty tennis championship.

said Amos Alonzo Stagg, veteran of Chicago. He added that the same logic behind the demand for its abolishment "would also ban a punt."

H. J. Stegeman, of the University of Georgia, called the play one of the most spectacular of the game, and said he believed it resulted in no more injuries than other formations. Stegeman said the decision as to the danger of the play really was up to the coaches, and that if they believed it so the rules committee undoubtedly would ban it. He added, however, that he did not believe the coaches had that feeling.

M. J. Ahearn, director of athletics at Kansas State Agricultural College, said his "snap reaction" would be to favor retention of the kick-off, but was unable to put over the last point. The second set, 7-5.

The doubles match between Frank Swift and Allison, Adams, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Kenneth Counts and Cams won, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3. The second doubles match, layed by Meriwether Ficklin and Denton Norris, said his "snap reaction" would be to favor retention of the kick-off, but was the hardest fought of the day. Manget, playing for Sigma Pi, had set, at 5-4, and at 7-6, but was unable to put over the last point. The second set, 7-5.

DECISION RESERVED.

W. O. Hunter, of the University of Southern California, said he would prefer to reserve his decision for the moment, but that, if he had to decide right now, he would favor retention of the kick-off.

One criticism of the play came from George Owen, former star at Harvard, who told the Boston Herald he remembered a game in which three men, including himself, were hurt in runbacks of kick-offs.

Warren Baxter, the Army quarter-back, elected to kick off.

It has been argued that the play is the most dangerous in the game, permitting formation of the banned "flying wedge," such a group of interference as Sheridan tried to break up in an effort which cost him his life.

"Doing away with the kick-off would not stop injuries in football," said Amos Alonzo Stagg, veteran of Chicago. He added that the same logic behind the demand for its abolishment "would also ban a punt."

SOCIAL AFFAIRS CALLED REASON FOR GOLF COSTS

Uniformed Flunkies, Elaborate Houses Blamed for Exorbitant Rates

By Basil G. Wyrick.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29. — (P) — The "high cost of golf" is not really due to golf itself, but to the addition of social affairs in which only a small percentage of members participate. These play and dance in elaborate clubhouses while the golfers pay the fiddler.

There was a time when they said that Dr. S. V. Sanford was making out impossible schedules for the Georgia Bulldogs.

At least that is the situation as painted by John W. Fulton, broker of golf memberships, after a national survey for the purpose of determining whether the situation could be solved by the addition of affiliated social members.

The canvass followed the evolution of golf from the original, simple, golf club, where a professional alone looked after all affairs while his wife ran the dining room in a modest clubhouse, into the elaborate present-day socialized club. The primitive club cost a member from $20 to $50 a year for golf while the protentious affair to golf, while the pretentious affair to-day costs him from $150 to $500, owing to elaborate clubhouses, large din- Mickey Walker Loses Japanese Welcome ing halls, flunkeys, French chefs, greens keepers, caddy masters and other supernumeraries.

ried Old 51 against the Tartans, tried trepeatedly.

But it wouldn' click. Carnegie had clubs of wealthy persons, although even the latter class was shown to have gone back in many instances, to golf only while holding their social activities to other clubs.

As to the "high cost of socialized golf," Fulton kept a tabulation on play at a large Chicago club with four eighteen-hole courses, one of which is eighteen-hole courses, one of which is kept open all winter. This showed that there were 65 days in a year when the average businessman could play golf through the regular season. A few golf through the regular season. A few played all witter week-ends, but the average rounds were under 100 a year. For this dues, interest on cost of membership and other club expenes run around $300 a year, or an average of $3 or more a round, besides transportation, caddies, refreshments and equipment. Fulton contends that this cost could be cut in half if social members paid for all except upkeep of the couses and a reasonable portion of fixed charges.

EAST LAKE INCLUDED. The canvass showed that large clubs which have adopted social memcourse players had a best ball of 64, four strokes under par, to win first honors.

Three professionals and their amateur partners divided second honors with nets of 65 each. Leslie Kellett and Abe Adair, East Lake; Willie Livingstone and R. H. White Jr. Capital City, and Harry Peim and Glen Hirleman, Forrest Hills, shared second-place prize.

Close behind were five other pairs, with nets of 66 each. They were Gene Cook and Johnny Adamson, W. W. Burns and Clyde Spinks, all West SOCIET VS. GOLF.

While the cost of golfing paraphernalia has gone up from 100 to 300 per cent since the g c took hold on Americans four decades ago, and the cost of keeping up better courses has doubled, the survey showed golf could be had for about a third of the average annual dues and incidentals even if the elaborate club facilities are retained.

Many clubs had overcome this situation by taking in social members who played golf, if at all, only on adays when golfing members were not at the club. The dues and golf fees of such non-voting members paid for all the expenses added to the old-fashioned golf club by socialization.

The evolution of the expensive organization from the simple golf club was largely due to an attempt by ordinary revenue to any altered agon.

ITARZAN THE TERRIBLE No. 35

that Om-at was now their chieftain, "It is well," exclaimed An-un, the father, "my daughter always said you would come back and slay Es-sat." Now the enemy broke into sight behind them. "Come!" exclaimed Tarzan, "let us turn and charge them, raising a great cry. Then they will think that many have come to join the three they pursued, since we are now eight." "Good," cried Om-at, "it shall be!"

Meanwhile, Om-at sent the swiftest youngster back to their tribe to bring a hundred warriors. Now rose the war cries of the two tribes as pursuers and pursued neared each other. The enemy, as Tarzan had predicted, hesitated, seeing eight where they had believed but three. Then Om-at and his companions fell upon them with such courage that the Kor-ul-lul turned and fled. Encouraged by this, Om-at's tailed fighters rushed them toward the high, thick bush.

Into this amoush ran Tarzan of the Apes, neatly tricked. A single black warrior had lured him on were their savage yells. The tall grass almost hid At last the fellow turned, at bay confronting the ape-man with a bludgeon and crawn knife. As ape-man with a bludgeon and crawn knie. As Tarzan charged him a score of burly Waz-don leaped from the surrounding bush. Instantly, but too late, the wily jungle lord realized his peril as he beheld the numbers against him, but with a savage growl he threw himself upon the warrior before him, twisting the heavy club from the zan, always swift and always keen for battle, was treated to a more strategic position. They had soon guessed the numbers of their pursuers, and know-ing them to be few, had made a stand where the

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Reduced bear pressure as well as support buying by banking interests and insiders of a number of important companies accounted for the rally which occurred in the stock market late today following early heaviness. The better undertone continued up to the close with most of the pivotal issues showing substantial net gains.

Part of the buying was attributed to covering by professional shorts who were taking profits. This covering was somewhat influenced by the existence of small premiums on a number of issues, especially Steel common and the statement before that body by Chancellor Bruening that partisanship must be forgotten, were accepted as indicating the seriousness of Germany's financial condition.

The results of the general elections have relieved concern regarding the British situation. Sterling exchange was three cents lower today, but this was accepted as indicating the seriousness of Germany's financial condition.

Railroad shares were prominent in the late betterment, notwithstanding the omission of the dividend due at this time on Jersey Central. Second-grade railroad bonds were under pressure. The "whispering campaign" continued, but is expected to be dissipated shortly by the operations of the national credit corporation. Reports that President Hoover may yet announce some plan affording financial aid to the transportation companies were received with some cheer. TWO BIG INFLUENCES.

The stock market is fluctuating be-ween optimism entertained with re-ard to the domestic situation and ween optimism entertained with ween optimism entertained with apprehension over the German financial situation. The Street is expressing fear over the future status of the big German credits totaling $1,500,000,000 of which $450,000,000 is held by American banks.

Although the grain markets are presenting a stronger front and hope is entertained that this will contribute largely to lifting the general stock market.

Current data indicate clearly that strenuous efforts are being made in the direction of safeguarding these credits by way of reduced reparation payments. Farmer Brown's Boy.

Peter Rabbit was right. Yes, sir, he was right. Farmer Brown's Boy was back home. He had returned in the great man-bird that had carried him away early in the summer and he was glad to be back. What was better still, there were very many who, like Peter Rabbit, were glad to have him back. Peter, looking out from the dear old Briar-patch. had seen the big plane land on the Green Meadows and Farmer Brown's Boy get out of it with Cousin Tom, who had taken him on his wonderful trip clear across the on his wonderful trip clear across the country. It was big news and Peter, who dearly loves to be the bearer of news, was anxious to get over to the Green Meadows and the Old Orchard to tell the glad tidings. But little Mrs. Peter, who seldom leaves the dear old Briar-patch and is always worried when Peter does, kept close by his side while Peter fidgeted about and tried to find some good excuse and tried to find some good excuse for going, and couldn't.

But Peter was not the only one who saw the big man-bird arrive and Farmer Brown's Boy get out of it. There are many keen eyes on the Green Meadows and in the Green Forest and the Old Orchard. Sammy Jay had happened to be in a tree on the edge of the Green Forest when that plane arrived. No sooner was Farmer Brown's Boy out of it and on his way to meet Farmer Brown and Mother Brown, who were hurrying down from the house, than Sammy started for the Old Orchard shrieking the news at the top of his voice. Peter heard him way over in the dear old Briar-patch, and a look of disappoint-ment crossed his face.

"He'll tell everybody," he muttered, quite forgetting that this was just what he wanted to do himself. Sammy did tell everybody. At least he told everybody he saw. From the Old Orchard he went to the Green FROCK WHICH FOLLOWS OUR Isn't the little basque bodice, gained through the more fitted line, effective? And don't you think the cap sleeves a cute idea edged with lace? The neck, too, is so generally becoming in deep open V with lace inset. "Dee, dee, dee, chickadee!" had cried Tommy Tit, almost urning a somersault on the twig on which he was sitting. "I am so glad! I wonder if he has brought any nut-meats for me to take from his hand."

"Caw!" had said Blackey the Crow gravely, but with a lively little twinkle in his %es. "You don't say so. Well, if we must have those two-legged creatures about I wish they were Chatterer the Red Squirrel forgot to quarrel. "Have you heard the news?" cried Chatterer.

"Of course I have, and it is good news, if you ask me," replied Happy Jack. "The nut crop is short this year, but if Farmer Brown's Boy is back it doesn't ma ter. I'm going straight over to greet him."

Happy Jack was as good as his word, and no sooner did he appear in a tree by the house than Farmer Brown's Boy came out with a handful of peanuts, as glad to see Happy Jack as Happy Jack was to see him. I suspect that Peter Rabbit would have been jealous could he have seen Happy Jack taking those nuts from the hand of Farmer Brown's Boy.

MORTGAGE BANKERS

RAP DISCOUNT PLAN DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 29 .- (A) The closing executive session of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America today received a report which members unofficially admitted condemns the proposal for organization of a federalized mortgage discount bank for rediscounting real extate credits count bank for rediscounting real estate credits.

William H. McNeal, of New York, chairman of a committee of five appointed to investigate sentiment among members, made the report which will not be made public until after it has been submitted to President Hoover's investigating committee, which asked for it.

It was learned from members.

It was learned from members, however, that the report vigorously assails the principle of government entry into business, declaring loan rates would not be lowered through establishment of such an institution, and expressing fear that taxpayers would have to bear the burden of any loss.
